FEDERAL INCOME TAX (Excerpt from “Instructions to Appointees” booklet)

Many of your parents or guardians may have questions concerning the income tax consequences of cadet pay and allowances. This section will furnish them with that information from the standpoint of both your tax return and their return for 2008. This information is based on the tax law and current rulings of treasury officials. However, it is informative only and should not be considered as necessarily reflecting the official position of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS).

Tax Withholding

Federal and State tax withholding will be started at the filing status of single with one exemption. The state of legal residence will be automatically input based on the home of record on file for the student. Cadets may change their state for tax withholding at any time by completing a State of Legal Residence Declaration in the Cadet Pay office, located in Vandenberg Hall, room 3C24. All cadets at the Academy are required to file their own income tax returns. As a fourth-class cadet entering the Academy in June 2008, you will receive or have credited to your account during 2008 approximately $5,100 which you must report as income from the Air Force.

Dependency Exemption

Once you become a cadet at the Academy, you are considered a member of the active military, and are no longer dependent upon your parents for support. You are considered supported by the Air Force or by yourself. (See IRS Publication 17.) However, since as an entering fourth-class cadet you were probably a dependent of your parents for half of the year before you entered the Academy, you may possibly be claimed as a dependent on their return for that year. In order to claim you as an income tax exemption your parents must have contributed more than half of your total support for the year. "More than half of support" refers to dollar value, and not to the length of time support was given. Following the steps below will help determine whether the "more than half of support" test is met. NOTE: Effective 1 January 1987, if you can be claimed as a dependent on the tax return of another taxpayer, then you may not claim yourself as a personal exemption on your tax return. Thus, if you are claimed on your parents' return, you may not claim yourself as an exemption when you file your own return for that year. After the fourth-class year when your parents may no longer claim you as a dependent on their return, you may claim yourself as an exemption when you file your own tax return.

Compute the value of support contributed by your parent or guardian in 2008.

Compute the value of support contributed by you and your parents or guardians and others (include support provided by the USAF).

You can use Worksheet 3-1, Worksheet for Determining Support, located on pg 33 in IRS Publication 17 for your calculations.

Compare your parents' or guardians' share of the total with that provided by you, the Air Force, or others. If your parents' or guardians' share is more than 50 percent of your total support, they meet the support test and can take the dependency exemption in your freshman year only. In determining how much your parents or guardians contributed to your support, a parent or guardian may include the cost of clothing, medical, and dental care, education, medical insurance premiums, transportation, entertainment, Christmas presents, etc., for you. If you lived at home during the first six months of 2008, a proportionate amount of the family food bill and utilities, fair rental value of lodging furnished, etc., may also be included. Educational expenses might include cost of tuition, books, board, and lodging, school supplies, and transportation to and from school if you attended college, preparatory school, or high school prior to entering the Air Force Academy.

In computing the value of support furnished you from sources other than a parent or guardian, both taxed and untaxed amounts must be included. Your taxable pay must, of course, be included. In addition, the fair value of the food, lodging, medical care, education, and other services furnished you by the Air Force must also be included even though their value is not taxed as income to you.

The Internal Revenue Service has ruled that an appointment to the Air Force Academy is not a scholarship. Thus, the cadet must include value of the education as support from sources other than the parents or guardians. The amount of support contributed by the cadet for one semester of education, food, lodging, cadet pay, etc., is $11,000. Compare this figure to the amount of support provided by the parents. If the parents' figure is higher, then the parents can claim the cadet as a dependent on their income tax return and the cadet cannot claim a personal exemption. If the $11,000 figure is larger than the amount provided by the parents, then the cadet will claim a personal exemption on his or her income tax return, and the parents cannot claim the fourth-class cadet as a dependent on their income tax return.

Questions

Income tax assistance is available to cadets through the USAFA/JA Volunteer Income Tax Assistance Center, located in The Alley in Arnold Hall. Call 719-333-3905 for more information or an appointment.

SUMMER LEAVE (don't make those vacation reservations too early)

The Academy tries to accommodate the summer leave requests made by the cadets; however, there are requirements for leadership and Ops courses which need to be met so sometimes the cadets must forfeit their summer leave. Unfortunately, this may happen after the parents have already paid for a cruise or other type of vacation! The final summer schedules come out just before spring break so parents should wait until after that to make plans for the summer.

FROM THE DEAN OF THE FACULTY

C1C Roni Yadlin earns NCAA Postgraduate Scholarship

I'm proud to announce that one of our cadet superstars, C1C Roni Yadlin, has earned a prestigious NCAA postgraduate scholarship! Cadet Yadlin, an Astronautical Engineering major, is currently the 3rd Group Commander, and in the fall was Captain of the Women's Soccer Team. She had already been selected as our 7th Holaday Scholar to attend Oxford. She will now have further funding to pursue her research interests in graduate school. This is a tremendous honor for her and for USAFA. Congratulations C1C Roni Yadlin—you make us proud!!

USAFA Grad Collects USAF Cadet of the Year honors

Second Lieutenant Kenny Grosselin (Class of 2008) was selected as the "US Air Force Cadet of the Year!" An outstanding distance runner in Cross Country and Track, Lt Grosselin also earned an NCAA Postgraduate Scholarship and is currently at Pardee RAND Graduate School. This is the 2nd year in a row that a USAFA graduate studying at PRGS has been selected.

US AIR FORCE ACADEMY DENTAL CLINIC
Where “Outstanding” is only the Beginning

Our current commander, Colonel Paul Fortunato is a recent graduate of the US Air Force Senior Military Education Air War College program where he received a Masters of Strategic Studies while in residence there. He is a dual board certified comprehensive dentist holding board certification in the American Board of General Dentistry as well as the Federal Services Board of General Dentistry. He received his Doctor of Medical Dentistry Degree from Tufts University School of Dental Medicine, Boston, MA. Colonel Fortunato completed his first residency at St. Francis Hospital and Medical Center in Hartford, CT and completed his advanced graduate dental education in Comprehensive Dentistry at the National Naval Dental Center, Naval Postgraduate Dental School, Bethesda, MD. While in this residency he also received a Master of Sciences in Health Sciences from George Washington University, Washington, D.C. He has had numerous positions while on active duty prior to his graduate program at Air War College to include Staff Dentist, Staff Officer, Senior Dental Resident, Chief of Dental Services, Medical Clinic Commander, as well as Deputy Medical Group Commander.

Colonel Fortunato took command of the 10th Dental Squadron, United States Air Force Academy, in June 2008. When he took command of the 10th Dental Squadron he set a goal for the dental clinic to continue to strive to be the “best in the Air Force.” The dental squadron team was up for that challenge and continues to make our outstanding dental clinic even better.

As recent as January, 2009, the 10th Dental Squadron earned the highest rating of “Outstanding” by the Air Force Inspection Agency in their Health Services Inspection. Colonel Fortunato attributes this to a lot of hard-work and perseverance by the extremely dedicated and caring dental clinic members who continue to strive for Excellence in all that they do! We are privileged to work in a state-of-the-art dental clinic with digital radiology, laser technology, a dental laboratory renovation amongst other dental clinic upgrades totaling over four hundred thousand dollars that have recently been completed.

The 10th Dental Squadron provides full-service dental care and includes nearly every dental specialty available. Dental Services provided include Preventive Dentistry (examinations, cleanings, sealants, et.), Restorative Dentistry (fillings), Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery (wisdom tooth removal, major jaw and facial surgery, and trauma care), Periodontics (treatment of gum disease), Endodontics (root canals), Prosthodontics (implants, crowns & bridges), and Orthodontics (correction of severe malocclusion).

Our clinic is one of only 12 in the entire Air Force to have a one-year dental residency program. This residency program consists of an exceptional, hand-picked dental teaching staff training top-of-the-line recent dental school graduates who were competitively selected from among the best and the brightest applicants. Our teaching staff is among the finest in the Air Force and includes board-certified specialists in Orthodontics, Comprehensive Dentistry, Periodontics, Prosthodontics, and Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery.

This all leads to an exceptional level of dental care provided by experienced and talented dentists that is rarely available anywhere else in the Air Force or civilian community. Our staff of 20 dentists provides world-class dental care to the USAFA cadet and active duty populations. In addition, the entire 70 person clinic staff is backed by a dedicated cadre of enlisted and civilian personnel.

According to Colonel Fortunato, this is a team of dedicated healthcare professionals who are excited about their part in providing for the optimum dental health of our future Air Force leaders. In addition, he welcomes phone calls or emails from any parent that may have a question about their cadet's dental care. For further information, please contact SSgt Cindy Baker or Maj Peggy Dickson (general dentist) at 719-333-5192; or email the dental clinic at USAFA.SGD@usafa.af.mil.

Air Force athletics announces no change in season ticket prices Fans have added incentives for purchasing tickets

U.S. AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. – Air Force Academy Director of Athletics Dr. Hans Mueh announced today that there is no change in the 2009 football ticket prices. In addition to no increase in prices, the department has established a payment plan for season ticket renewals. Fans will have the opportunity to renew their tickets with three monthly installments rather than a one-time fee.

On-line season ticket renewals will make fans eligible for several incentives like season tickets to another Air Force sport, a $100 gift shop shopping spree, tickets to a pre-game Pride Club tailgate and team merchandise. The first 100 fans to renew will also receive an Air Force football media guide.

Fans in the 50-Yard Line Club will receive enhancements to the current program. The retail value stored tickets will be stored for the entire season, not just $5.00 per game. That means fans will have $30 of stored value on their tickets to be used at anytime during the season at Falcon Stadium.

“We’re excited to tell our fans we’re listening and we understand the economic impact the economy has had on everyone,” Mueh said. “We hope that no increases and our payment plan will help folks in our community with the purchase of their tickets. We also hope that changing the setup with stored value tickets will help our fans more effectively take advantage of this great program.”

Season tickets start as low as $50 and range in price up to $275. There are also family value packs in areas for as low as $325. For more information, contact the athletic ticket office at 800-666-USAF or go on-line to goairforcefalcons.com.
